

A Note to Researchers

The Arundel Castle Archive Catalogues have been electronically scanned, a process which resulted in mysterious changes to some characters, e.g. the letters 'r' and 'n' when occurring together were sometimes changed into the letter 'm'. Every effort has been made to correct such things, but researchers should be aware that some anomalies may remain. If in doubt about any of the entries, or if you come across and can clarify anything we have missed, please contact a member of the Archives team at Arundel Castle.

Information in the catalogues which has been found to be incorrect is indicated by ~~striking through~~, and any additional information appears throughout inside square brackets and in red.

N.B. When using the Index, researchers should be aware that the page numbers refer to those at the bottom of the (original) catalogue page and NOT to the computer generated page numbering.

Document references require the letter (usually highlighted at the top of each page) and number.

ALTHOUGH this third volume of the catalogue of the archives at Arundel Castle is much smaller than its predecessors and contains details of many relatively modern documents, it deals with a large quantity of miscellaneous correspondence and other papers. The extent of these records is about 17,000 books, files, bundles, or individual items; if the contents of files were counted, probably 50,000 or more documents would be involved. The diversity of much of this material has presented problems of classification, but it is hoped that the index, compiled by Mrs. Grace Holmes, will direct users of this book to the material they require.

The enormous quantity of correspondence (and there is much more still to be sorted) has been retained—so far as is practicable—in what were probably original bundles with the result that there is inevitable overlapping with regard to writers, recipients, and subjects. The letters of the 14th Duchess and the 15th Duke, in particular seem to have been dealt with in one of two ways in the past: the recipients either kept their letters in bundles or, at unknown dates, at least three people attempted to sort the correspondence, but whether they acted on instructions or on their own initiative, will never be known. When all the rest of the Arundel letters have been examined and catalogued, the ideal—but hideously expensive—course would be for a final rearrangement of this valuable material and to have it bound up into volumes.

It may be questioned as to why very modern documents have been included in this catalogue and not be available to readers. The reason is that records of all periods are part and parcel of a family's archives and may well be required either for family use or for the current administration of the estates. A statement as to the facilities for readers, and the restrictions imposed on certain classes of records will be found on p. v.

If printing costs continue to rise, this present volume may well be the last of the Arundel catalogues to appear in traditional form; future volumes will have to remain in manuscript and copies be reproduced by xerox or some similar process. This is an unhappy situation for everyone concerned, but it makes me all the more grateful to the West Sussex County Council and the County Archivist, Mrs. P. Gill, for so generously allowing this book to be part of that long series of catalogues published by the County Council and which, I believe it is true to say, have been of use to scholars in this and many other countries.

My thanks are also due to Miles, Duke of Norfolk for allowing me to continue as Archivist and Librarian at Arundel Castle in the same way as I was privileged to serve the late Duke. The interest shown by the 16th and 17th Dukes of Norfolk in their family and estate archives and their magnificent library has been, and still is, a great encouragement to soldier on with what seems, after more than 20 years, an unending task.

I shall welcome corrections if readers of this book notice any mistakes; no one person can be expected to know all about such a complex collection as there is at Arundel Castle; questions of identification of persons and places are bound to arise.

Finally, I would like to record the consideration shown by many of the scholars who use the records at Arundel. Some requests have to be refused and other readers have to be content with less documents than they would like to see; this understanding of practical difficulties is much appreciated by one who is no longer young and has no assistance.

Arundel Castle,
September 1976.

FRANCIS W. STEER

The following information remains here to maintain the integrity of the original catalogue. Although there are still some restricted documents, access is granted wherever possible. Researchers should contact Arundel Castle Archives (see the website) to arrange their visits.

ACCESS TO THE ARCHIVES AT ARUNDEL CASTLE

The Duke of Norfolk is pleased to give facilities to accredited scholars to use the archives at Arundel Castle, but he wishes to draw attention to the following:

1. The part-time Archivist and Librarian at Arundel Castle is Dr. Francis Steer, of 63 Orchard Street, Chichester, Sussex, to whom enquiries should be addressed, and with whom appointments should be made in writing.
2. Persons wishing to consult the archives should provide the necessary references as given in the printed Catalogues (edited by F. W. Steer) published by the West Sussex County Council in 1968, 1972 and 1976; further volumes are in course of preparation.
3. Documents less than one hundred years old will not normally be available for study, and neither will any records that are regarded as of a confidential nature. It cannot be expected that reasons should be given for withholding access to any of the records at Arundel Castle.
4. While the Archivist and Librarian is willing to answer simple enquiries, he cannot undertake protracted researches or enter into correspondence which could lead to any form of controversy; neither can he give opinions on subjects which may be in any way prejudicial to the owner of the records or to any other person.
5. Acknowledgment for the use of any of the Arundel Castle archives in theses or published works (in any form) must be made to His Grace The Duke of Norfolk, E.M., C.B., C.B.E., M.C. A copy of any published work which has depended on information from the Arundel Castle archives will be gratefully accepted for the Castle library.
6. Special security arrangements are in operation at Arundel Castle. All persons visiting the Castle for the purpose of consulting the archives are requested to wait outside the main gate (at the top of the hill—Arundel High Street) where they will be met at a stated time. For the benefit of those visiting the Castle for the first time, a plan will be sent to show the point at which they will be met. Visitors are particularly requested to be punctual.
7. There are no arrangements at Arundel Castle for xerox, photographic or other copies of documents to be made. Persons requiring such copies to be made elsewhere must undertake to be responsible for all costs (including travelling and/or reproduction fees) which may be incurred. An undertaking, in writing, must also be given that additional copies of any form of reproduction will not be made without permission. Microfilms cannot be provided, and neither can documents be transferred to other repositories for the convenience of persons wishing to carry out long-term research. The Archivist and Librarian has authority to grant or deny copies of any records.
8. As the Arundel Castle archives are private property, persons desirous of using them cannot be offered the same facilities as are available in the national and local record offices. While every endeavour will be made to meet reasonable requests, it may be necessary to refuse some of them; the Archivist and Librarian is empowered to use his discretion in all such matters.

CORRESPONDENCE OF AUGUSTA MARY MINNA CATHERINE, DUCHESS OF NORFOLK (1821-1886).

The daughter of Edmund, 1st Baron Lyons, married Henry Granville, 14th Duke of Norfolk in 1839. From 1842 to 1856 (when he succeeded his father) the Duke was known as Earl of Arundel and Surrey; he died 25 Nov. 1860. Many of the letters are from Catholic dignitaries and Fathers of the Oratory, others are appeals for a wide variety of charities, some are letters of thanks or of a personal nature. Nine hundred and twelve letters are undated and as so few envelopes have survived there are no clues as to dates; a few letters are incomplete. A small number of letters to the Duchess' daughters (Ladies Victoria, Minna, Mary and Etheldreda Fitzalan-Howard) and to J. R. Hope-Scott have been left in this collection which someone had made an unsatisfactory attempt to sort at some unknown date. The letters are now arranged in years only.
